

TENNESSEE NATURALIST PROGRAM

Presents

An Introduction to Field Journaling & Nature Drawing

Taught by Tennessee Native, Esteemed Scientific Illustrator and Cornell Bird Academy Instructor - Liz Clayton Fuller

This course is for anyone who loves nature and wants to learn more about Field Journaling and how to sketch what you see. The Tennessee Naturalist Program is so excited to offer this rare opportunity to have Liz Clayton Fuller walk you through five different drawing exercises, techniques, and concepts to help you feel more confident in your drawing and observation skills.

The supplies are simple - a pencil and 8 to 10 blank sheets of paper. Once signed up you will receive 2 pages of reference sketches that will help you during the course.

The course will be live via Zoom with opportunities for questions and comments. You will have a 10 minute break during the class to refresh.

You Are Invited

Saturday, March 13, 2021 from 1:00 pm to 3:00

$59 - 2 CE Credits Available

Early registration for TNP Students, Naturalists and Graduates

About Liz Clayton Fuller

SCIENTIFIC ILLUSTRATOR

Born and raised in Nashville, Tennessee, Liz is an accomplished scientific illustrator and fine artist. She holds a BFA in illustration with a minor in art history from Savannah College of Art and Design and a certificate in natural science illustration from the University of Washington. She has created and taught field sketching courses for Cornell University undergraduates as well as for their adult university program. She has also illustrated field guides, created educational outreach materials, and painted visuals for scientific papers at the Cornell Lab of Ornithology.

<https://www.lizclaytonfuller.com/>

All images copyright Liz Clayton Fuller